“Our Baci table duo also holds a special place in my heart. The colours GRACEFULLY SHIFT with the changing light and it truly embodies the DISTINCTIVE DNA of Marbera.”

I have pretty diverse taste in music and find it challenging to pinpoint a single favourite artist. Currently, Ayo is on a loop. At the studio, we always have music playing in the background, ranging from soothing playlists to energetic American rap, depending on the day.

The best thing I've ever bought is my Soriana leather armchairs from Cassina. I love them so much. Our Baci table duo also holds a special place in my heart. The colours gracefully shift with the changing light and it truly embodies the distinctive DNA of Marbera.

If the house was burning down, the thing I would save is the family photo albums. It may seem trivial in today's digital age when everything is stored on iPhones, but they hold a particular value for me. What could be more precious than these memories?

Sicily holds a special place in my heart. It's where my fondest childhood memories were made, where my family lives and where I established our workshop. I love the authentic charm of the island, its Baroque history, the food, the vibrant colours... Sicily is where I recharge my batteries and find inspiration.

I collect coffee mugs – it's something that's become quite a habit. Perhaps it's because my morning coffee is a ritual – almost a religion. Each mug represents a moment on my travels, and I love reminiscing.
